

Design is the soul of your home

Let's be real. Everyone wants to live in the houses they are inspired by on the internet, TV and in magazines - who wouldn't!

The reality is, the design process to create those spaces can be overwhelming and takes a lot of time, effort and expertise! From the planning process, the detailed decisions that need to be made, timelines that need to be met, to the troubleshooting that needs to be done during construction... it's all just a lot!

That's where we come in and do what we do best by guiding and educating our clients through the process.

Our names are Robyn and Emily and we are the co-founders of re:Design Studio. We met over a decade ago and have been design school classmates, best buds and since 2018, business partners!

We love working together and have found that we do our best work when we collaborate! We challenge, and often push each other out of our comfort zones, but have the most fun while we do it!

We felt it was time to think differently about design. We wanted to create an environment that was comfortable and approachable for our clients to come and discuss their design visions. Our interior design studio creates unique-to-you spaces for custom and curated living and working environments. We love to collaborate with our clients and work with them to design their absolute dream space. Our design process ensures that no two projects are ever alike!

We offer our clients a range of services that are tailored to suit their project. Whether you need help curating the look you already love or need us to develop a custom design just for you from scratch, we help to simplify the design experience from start to finish!

We truly believe that design is never a one size fits all, which is why we created 5 service options.

Our services range from a quick virtual meeting to hash out a problem, 5 hours of design time with one of the designers, creating a 3D concept that you can take and execute on your own timeline, full service interior design and designing a custom home from the ground up. That's right folks, we do more than just pick paint and decor, though if that's what you need, we can help with that too!

So, you're ready to start a project? What's the next step?

First things first, get in touch with us! We start every project with a virtual meet-and-greet consultation for us to get to know you and your project. This also gives you a chance to meet us! We think we are pretty great to work with, but believe that it has to be a mutual feeling for the project to be successful!

After the consult, we put a custom estimate together to review with you and if all looks good, we schedule a start date! To learn more about our process, check out our website! We look forward to connecting with you! www.redesignstudio.ca ■
